Relative Risk Profile

Each Aon Managed Retirement Pathway fund automatically changes its investment mix over time from higher-risk to lower-risk investments and therefore the risk rating of each fund will vary over time from 6 (High) at the beginning of the investment cycle to 3 (Medium-Low) at the maturity date of the fund.

These risk ratings are only applicable to funds available via TargetPlan. Other risk ratings apply across the rest of our fund range and they, or ratings from other providers, are not comparable. Be aware that even lower risk investments can fall in value.

Fund objective

The Funds are part of a series of dynamic investment strategies. This Fund aims to maximise the potential for capital growth, and help manage the investment risks at each stage of an investor's life. The Aon Managed Retirement Pathway Funds will provide members of a company's pension scheme (investors) with a choice to invest in a single fund, from entry, through to retirement and beyond. Each Fund will automatically adjust its investment strategy as it progresses towards a target date, normally the mid-point of each of the Funds (which is assumed to be the retirement date of the members) and will continue to be managed for those members that wish to remain invested beyond this point. The Funds will invest in a portfolio of assets which can include actively and passively managed funds.

This chart shows how an investor's investment mix will change gradually as they get nearer retirement. For some funds, the investment mix continues to change after retirement - where this applies, this is shown in columns after year zero.

Performance Commentary

Over the three-month period to 31 December 2024, the Fund returned 3.7% against a backdrop of positive equity market returns.

Global equity markets rose during the fourth quarter of 2024, largely driven by US equities, despite an increase in volatility following the US Federal Reserve's interest rate meeting in December. US equities benefited from better-than-expected economic growth and the depreciation of the pound against the US dollar, which resulted in higher returns in sterling terms. In contrast, returns were mixed in other markets; both UK and European equities fell, while Japanese equities performed well.

In the Labour Party's first Budget for 14 years, Chancellor Rachel Reeves announced several changes to the UK's tax system (including an increase in Employer's National Insurance Contribution), resulting in £40 billion in tax increases. Meanwhile, across the Atlantic, the Republican Party, led by Donald Trump, achieved a decisive victory, gaining a majority in the White House as well as the US Senate and House of Representatives, further benefiting equity markets due to expectations of pro-business policies which should lift growth, lower taxes and cut regulation.

The Aon Managed Initial Growth Phase Fund returned 3.8% over the quarter. The UBS Global Equity Climate Transition Fund returned 6.3%, reflecting strong returns from most equity markets. The allocation to Emerging Market equities fell, with the UBS Global Emerging Market Equity Climate Transition Fund returned -1.8%. This reflected weak returns from Emerging Market equities due to concerns about the potential impact of Trump's proposed tariffs. The allocation to multi-factor equities delivered a positive absolute return of 4.0%, although lagged the broader market. The underweight to the technology sector, particularly large-cap technology stocks, detracted from overall performance, as there was a resurgence in market momentum in artificial intelligence following Trump's election. Conversely, an underweight position in the healthcare sector was beneficial.

The property and infrastructure fund allocation returned -2.0%, with underlying managers delivering mixed results. The listed property values fell by 3.9%, driven by a rise in inflation globally and expectations of fewer interest rate cuts in 2025. This decline was partially offset by gains in listed infrastructure, where increasing energy prices offset the rise in bond yields. Additionally, UK commercial property contributed positively through a combination of income returns, rental growth, and rising capital values.

The Aon Managed Global Impact Fund returned 2.6%, behind its benchmark. The underweight to technology, particularly large-cap technology, detracted from performance as technology stocks performed strongly. Exposure to industrials, which performed poorly, also detracted from returns.

This Fund is more than 15 years away from its target date and its investment mix at the end of the quarter is provided in the chart above.

Differences in performance reporting between fund and benchmark may arise due to the impact of timing, charges, cashflows, and the pricing basis of the underlying fund. Fund returns are calculated on a total return basis with dividends reinvested.

The value of your plan depends directly on a number of things, including the level of your pensions savings, charges, investment returns and the annuity rates available to buy your pension income when you decide to take your benefits. Levels and basis of, and reliefs from, taxation can also change. Any money that you invest in the plan is tied up until you take your retirement benefits. You cannot normally take the benefits until at least the age of 55.

The value of investments can fluctuate. Fluctuations may be particularly marked in the case of a higher volatility fund and the value of an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. Changes in exchange rates will affect the value of overseas investments. Emerging market investments are often associated with greater investment risk. Two main risks related to fixed income investing are interest rate risk and credit risk. Typically, when interest rates rise, there is a corresponding decline in the market value of bonds. Credit risk refers to the possibility that the issuer of the bond will not be able to repay the principal and make interest payments.
